Economically Priced Internal Door

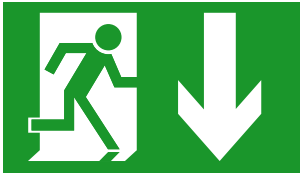

The ECOSPRINT advantages compared to vertical opening.

The high-speed door ECOSPRINT with its extensive features is an economical introduction to vertical opening technology.

The door opens twice as fast, due to the bi-parting opening of the two door halves. The entire opening height is immediately accessible to the user, enabling quick and safe goods traffic.

The ECOSPRINT requires only a 230 V power supply, thus distinguishing itself from other models due to its low operating cost. The clear and expertly conceived construction saves time and expense for service and maintenance work.

In case of power failure the door can be opened quickly by means of emergency operation. Automatic opening and escape route approval are optional.

The minimal space requirement and the self supporting construction enable problem-free assembly. Optimal adaptation to the operational requirements is achieved by the many in-house integrated programme variants.

The ECOSPRINT is in compliance with the most recent safety regulations; the light curtain, integrated in the closing edge, controls the non-contact protection system.
